Who we are

Maudsley Learning's mission is to enhance the mental health and wellbeing of all through education and training. We design and deliver training and workforce development programmes to meet the needs of professionals in the healthcare workforce, but also to many others including colleagues in social services, policing, schools and in the private sector.

Our ask

To assist us with developing and delivering this programme across London, we are keen to identify:

- Key professionals in your organizations, across disciplines, who have interest and/or expertise to act as lead contacts for our programme
- Existing local resources, eg details of any mental health training initiatives already established in your Trust
- Any information about existing training needs to support the development of the curriculum and target our programme's content to specific professional groups you may have already identified as a priority for further mental health training
- Existing opportunities and/or barriers to the delivery of this programme

In addition, we are keen to get in touch with colleagues in your Trust who may already act as mental health champions or be part of mental health strategy groups to scope out their interest in the leadership part of the programme, including acting as trainers to embed sustainability of further training.

Our offer

With support from Chief Executives of London's Trusts we have been asked to develop a pan-London training programme aiming to enhance mental health awareness and skills of paediatric staff in secondary care services.

The programme, which will be at no cost to London NHS Trusts, will be delivered to clinical and non-clinical staff in paediatric settings through a bespoke curriculum.

In line with the requirements of the different roles and responsibilities of different workforce groups the curriculum will cover the following areas:
